Climate Justice and Community Renewal
Resistance and Grassroots Solutions

Edited by Brian Tokar and Tamra Gilbertson

Series: Routledge Advances in Climate Change Research

This book brings together the voices of people from five continents who live, work and research on the front lines of climate resistance and renewal. Climate Justice and Community Renewal uniquely highlights the accounts of people who are directly engaged in local climate struggles and community renewal efforts, including on-the-ground land defenders, community organizers, leaders of international campaigns, agroecologists, activist-scholars and many others. It will appeal to students, researchers, activists, and all who appreciate the need for a truly justice-centered response to escalating climate disruptions.

Reviews

"This exceptional collection demonstrates why the most farsighted and constructive responses to the climate emergency stem from embracing the re-communalization of social life on the basis of egalitarian, post-capitalist, horizontalist, and non-patriarchal principles." -- Arturo Escobar, Professor of Anthropology Emeritus, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, USA

"As this volume shows, nation-states prevaricate, but everyday people now lead on climate change, building new models of democratic politics, at once grassroots and globally collaborative" -- Ariel Salleh, author and activist, author of Ecofeminism as Politics (2017) and Eco-Sufficiency & Global Justice (2009)
